Chantilly porcelain is French soft-paste porcelain produced between 1730 and 1800 by the manufactory of Chantilly in Oise, France. The wares are usually divided into three periods, 1730-51, 1751-1760, and a gradual decline from 1760 to 1800. The factory made table and tea wares, small vases, and some figures, all of Oriental. Chantilly soft-paste porcelain Magots, 1740. Chantilly porcelain plate, Kakiemon style, 1725-1751. Chantilly porcelain sugar bowl, Kakiemon style, 1725-1751. Chantilly milk pot in Kakiemon style, 1725-1751.